

PICK your priorities

In this Q & A, Envi editor-in-chief Khri Dodson interviews Peter Wilcoxon, a Syracuse University professor, about the region's worst pollution problems and the best ways to spend the Superfund Program money to clean up central New York.

WATCH the windmills

Visit the latest tourist attractions: wind farms. The town of Madison is home to the first industrial wind farm in New York state (Fenner is second), and the Tug Hill plateau boasts the largest wind farm east of the Mississippi River.

DISCUSS the debate

Read the extended interviews about corn-based ethanol with David Pimentel, a Cornell University professor, and Ann Peck, the former executive secretary of the New York Corn Growers Association. Add your two cents on the Envi blog.

SEARCH for sandpipers

Print the scavenger hunt then search for eagles and ospreys leaving their nests, yellow leg and sandpiper shore birds looking for food in shallow water, and the white and pink flowers of the marsh mallow blooming in swamps.

GO for gold

Watch the audio slideshow of the only house in New York to receive the U.S. Green Building Council's gold rating for sustainability and energy efficiency. Homeowner Elet Callahan and builders Kevin and Josh Stack take you on a tour.
